Describe skills that you wish you would have liked to acquire, but were not able to. What could your worksite have provided for you to acquire those skills?

Which (academic) special assignments were most meaningful to you? Which ones were least meaningful? Explain.

Would you suggest any steps your worksite could take to make interns feel more welcome and provide them with better oversight?

Explain whether the work you did was challenging and interesting. If you did not find it so, or if it was too difficult, explain and suggest ways to improve this.

What career expectations did you bring to your internship? How were they reinforced, or how did they change?

What improvements would you recommend to the method of communication between the faculty and teaching assistants and the interns?
